“Shared Experiences : the boundaries of the social brain” Summerschool

05/02/2014

We invite applications from PhD students, post-doc and young researchers to attend the Summer School on “Shared Experiences : the boundaries of the social brain”, organized by Manos Tsakiris (Royal Holloway), Ophelia Deroy & Barry Smith (Centre for the Study of the Senses & Institute of Philosophy, UoL, UK).

The Summer School will take place in the Island of Aegina, Greece (approximately 1 hour by boat from Piraeus, the port of Athens), at the wonderful location of the historic Hotel Apollo, from June 22nd to 28th , 2014.

This Summer School builds upon the success of a previous summer school on the “Embodied Intersubjectivity” that we organized in Aigina last year.

We would now like to revisit the question of shared experiences with a particular focus on the boundaries of the social brain. The provisional programme of the school includes sessions on:

- What can (and cannot) be shared? - Ontogenetic and phylogenetic perspectives on intersubjectivity - Embodying other people’s minds and bodies - Neural and cognitive mechanisms of sharing - Sharing actions and intentions - Intersubjectivity in aesthetics experiences

To deliver the state-of-the-art research in these fields, we have invited leading researchers from the fields of experimental, developmental and social psychology, cognitive and social neuroscience, primatology and philosophy. Confirmed speakers
